

Rimsko naselje Aquae S(...) smješteno je na lijevoj obali rijeke Željeznice, na početku ilidžanskog naselja Lužani. U periodu vladavine Rimskog carstva, predstavljalo je najznačajnije naselje u Sarajevskom polju. Pretpostavlja se da je Ilidža planski nastala u vrijeme vladavine cara Marka Aurelija (161.-180. n.e.) i da je to period kada veliki broj vojnih veterana naseljava ovaj prostor Ilidže čime je njena populacija rasla.

Na lokalitetu se mogu vidjeti ostaci termi i ville urbane, ali je teško zamisliti kako su oni originalno izgledali. Projekat Rimsko naslijeđe Sarajeva kroz tehniku uvećane realnosti rekreira te kulturne spomenike i nudi posjetiocima uvid u život na ovom prostoru u doba rimske imperije.

The Roman settlement Aquae S (...) is located on the left bank of the River Željeznica, at the initial part of Ilidža's settlement Lužani. During the reign of the Roman Empire, it represented the most significant settlement in the Sarajevo plain. It is assumed that Ilidža was planned in the time of Emperor Marcus Aurelius (161-180 AD) and that this was the period when a large number of military veterans inhabited this area of Ilidža, thereby increasing its population.

Remnants of thermal spas and urban villas can be seen on the site, but it is hard to imagine what they originally looked like. The Roman Heritage of Sarajevo Project recreates these cultural monuments through Augmented Reality techniques and offers visitors an insight into the life in this area during the Roman Empire.
